Transforming the future of cancer treatment

The Cancer Vaccine Institute is the only national charity in the UK devoted exclusively to funding research into the use of cancer immunotherapy as a treatment for cancer. Larger cancer charities have recently become interested in this field and so you may have read about developments in the newspapers recently. Our Principal, Professor Angus Dalgeish, has been interested in cancer immunotherapy for many years and since 2000 funds raised by the CVI have enabled him to set up a small team of researchers at St George’s Hospital in London. We were the first charity to fund research into cancer immunotherapy and believe that it is the future of cancer research.

A Tribute Fund is a unique and lasting way to honour and remember someone special to you. Named after the person who has died it enables family, friends and colleagues to contribute to the fund either by donating money or raising funds as far into the future as they wish. All of the money raised will support the Cancer Vaccine Institute's pioneering research work and bring hope to future generations.

Want to set up a Tribute fund?

Setting up a fund is easy and the CVI will handle all the administration as well as providing regular updates on how the fund is growing. We can even set up a unique page on our website with details of the fund and an option for people to support it.
